Talking with Mz. Terrell

an interview by Matthew and Austin

Matthew: How do you pick the songs?

Mz. Terrell: I think about songs from the past that I enjoy to sing and teach. And I like to choose songs that are age appropriate.

Matthew: What is your favorite type of music?

Mz. Terrell: Operatic music. I don't like to teach it to kids because they're not used to singing it. I also like Broadway music and I would be okay with teaching that.

Matthew: Is there any kind of music that you don't like teaching?

Mz. Terrell: I don't teach what I don't like.

Math Problem of the Month

by Susie Baker-Lapp

No comics this month, so we've replaced the comics section with the Math Problem of the Month, here it is:

Hard:

There are seven numbers that are not even. Their sum is 13. The greatest number is 7. What are the numbers?

Harder:

What's What

Take five times which plus half of what
And make the square of what you've got.

Divide by one-and-thirty square,
To get just four, that's right, it's there.

Now two more points I must impress:
Both which and what are fraction-less,

And what less which is not a lot:

Just two or three.

So now how much is which and how much is what?

Look for the answers next month!

A New Fragrance at the National Zoo

by Sara Dean

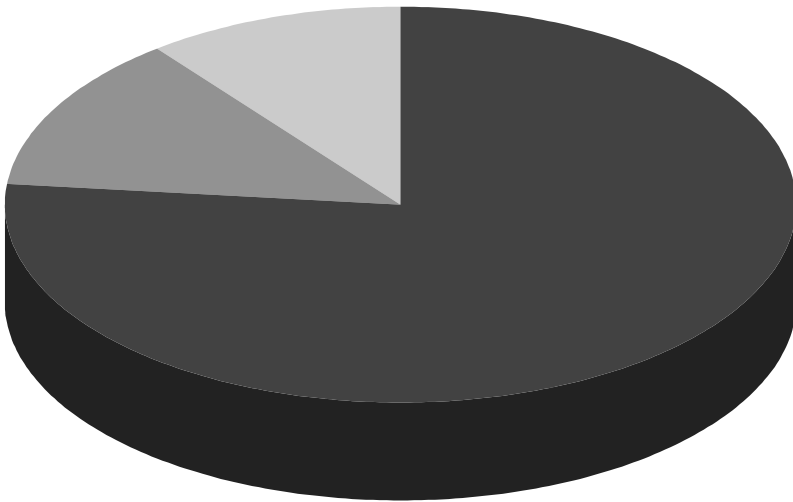

The newest thing at the national zoo is the baby panda, Tai Shan (Peaceful Mountain). His mother is Mei Xiang (Beautiful Fragrance) and his father is Tian-Tian (more and more) He was born in early July, and was recently let into the panda exhibit. In order to see him, you need to get tickets. To view the panda without getting tickets, you can go to the panda cam at www.fonz.org. They also have a photo gallery on the site. Tai Shan will be moving to china in two years as part of a panda breeding program, so if you want to see him, make sure you go before then.
